The concept of Love in Islam

In Islam, love is important, but it is expressed in ways that align with faith and values. The greatest love is the love of Allah (SWT). The Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) taught us about different types of love:

- ◆ Love for Allah – through worship and following His guidance.
- ◆ Love for the Prophet (ﷺ) – by following his Sunnah and good character.
- ◆ Love for Family & Friends – by being kind, caring, and respectful.
- ◆ Love for the Ummah (Muslim Community) – by supporting and helping one another.

📖 Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) said:

"None of you will truly believe until you love for your brother what you love for yourself." (Sahih al-Bukhari & Muslim)

♥ Islam encourages kindness, gratitude, and sincerity in love – not just one day a year, but every day!

Comprehension Questions:

According to Islam, what is the greatest love?

How did Prophet Muhammad (ﷺ) teach us to express love?

Why do you think Islam encourages love and kindness every day instead of just one special day?

Alternative Ways to Show Love

Think of a "Love & Kindness in Islam" Card instead of a Valentine's Card!

Design a small card or write a message for someone you love (e.g., parents, siblings, teachers).

Include an Islamic hadith or Quranic ayah about love and kindness.

Share a kind message about why you appreciate them.
